Do you know Unaffiliated Jews in Chester County, Montgomery County and Delaware County?

Do you have Jewish friends or acquaintances who live in Chester County, Montgomery County and Delaware County who are not already members of a synagogue? If you do, why not invite them to one of the upcoming events at Or Shalom. They may have a good time and decide to come back. They may have such a good time that they decide to become members themselves. According to a recent survey by the Jewish Federation, there are many, many unaffiliated Jews in Chester county. We’d love to contact them, but don’t know who they are. You can help.

As always … the content of this article is based on my thoughts and not those of the Or Shalom (Board, Rabbi, and Congregation)

I hope you, your friends, and your family all had a wonderful Passover. Our family was fortunate enough to attend the first seder at Or Shalom. It was nice to see friends and enjoy the evening. The rabbi did a wonderful job conducting the seder. I also have to say that the caterer did a great job, and it was the best Passover meals that I have had at Or Shalom. The Matzah Ball soup had flavor which is one of my tell-tale signs. I would encourage y’all to attend the seder at Or Shalom next year if you are available.

I want to make sure that you are aware that the Mask Policy has been updated at Or Shalom. At the time I am writing this email masks are not required in the sanctuary for services, but they are required on the bema. The policy is reviewed and modified regularly based on recommendations from Delaware County and the local school system. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank the Or Shalom Covid Committee for all their hard work through this pandemic. It was a thankless job, but the team did their best to weigh the risks and provide recommendations.

We are getting to the end of another fiscal year. This has been a difficult year with the pandemic, but we are continuing to stay afloat. Coming into the end of the fiscal year we are hoping to not have to draw on the line of credit, but it will be close. If you can help the congregation financially it will be greatly appreciated. As a smaller congregation every member’s fair share is larger. That is just the way the math works. We continue to keep our costs as low as possible and we were fortunate this year to get donations/grants to make infrastructure enhancements. We have new doors on the sanctuary, security camera, and we are getting the front of the building painted. Just to name a few items. All this work could not have been done without the support of the community.

On the 12th of June from 4pm to 6pm Congregation Or Shalom is holding it’s first social occasion and fundraiser since March of 2020! This is a wonderful opportunity for our community, friends, and families to be together for an enjoyable event. As a valued member of the congregation, we are asking you to please donate a gift certificate or item for our Auction. Or feel free to forward this information to a business in the area. If you have any questions about the fundraiser, please reach out to the office and/or Julie Miller. I highly encourage you, your family, and your friends to join us for this fun event. It is a great opportunity to see old friends, make new friends, and build the Or Shalom community.

I wish y’all health and happiness. Now get out and enjoy the warm weather after you volunteer for a position on the Or Shalom Board this coming year. I am sure you did not think I would forget to ask for volunteers in a newsletter article.

In G-d we trust,

Andy
Rabbi’s Reflections

Last month we had our Passover Seder, and from my perspective it was a really wonderful evening. We hosted about 30 people, together, in-person. Everyone was respectful of one another’s boundaries and most importantly everyone seemed very happy and excited to see one another celebrating our people’s historic liberation. A few days later I was studying the Torah portions for the upcoming Pesach days (days 7 and 8) and the commentary I read gave description to what I witnessed and felt during the community seder.

Rabbi Ilana Kurshan of the Conservative Yeshiva of Jerusalem writes on Shirat HaYam:

“On the final days of Pesach, we read Shirat Hayam, a lengthy song of thanksgiving dramatizing the splitting of the sea, the drowning of Pharaoh and his chariots, and the miraculous deliverance of the Israelites. Shirat Hayam, though most commonly associated with Pesach, is also recited every morning as part of the daily liturgy, where it appears between Pesukei d’Zimra—the verses of praise recited as preparation for prayer—and Shacharit, the morning service. When considered in each of these liturgical contexts, Shirat Hayam marks the transition from the individual to the collective, giving voice to both the miracle of national deliverance and the power of communal prayer.”

In reflecting upon the seder I realized that we find ourselves in a similar moment, a moment of transition from forced individualism to hopefully, a time of the collective.

Rabbi Ilana Kurshan continues:

“When the Song of the Sea was first recited—after the Israelites passed through the Sea of Reeds on dry land—it brought the people together after a moment of panicked divisiveness. Just before the sea split, the Israelites argued with one another about how to proceed. According to the Talmudic sage Rabbi Meir, the various tribes competed with one another about who would first set foot in the sea: “When the Jewish people stood at the Sea of Reeds, the tribes argued with one another. This one said: I am going into the sea first, and that one said: I am going into the sea first” (Sotah 36b). The tribe of Benjamin jumped in first, and the tribe of Judah—who felt they ought to be first—began pelting them with stones. According to Rabbi Meir, then, everyone wanted to go first. But Rabbi Yehuda argues that in fact the tribes were arguing not about who would get to jump in first, but who would have to, with each tribe insisting that they would not be the first to take the plunge. Then suddenly Nachshon ben Aminadav, the leader of the tribe of Judah, jumped in, and the other members of his tribe followed. According to both of these opinions, the Israelites were divided in rival tribal factions before the sea split, unable to act collectively as a people.”

We can identify with how the Israelites felt, approaching the tumultuous sea not knowing how they would cross but seeing the Egyptians quickly approaching from behind. Entering the unknown is scary and people can react in destructive and isolating ways when they are afraid. Does this sound familiar? Doesn’t this sound like what we have been living the past 2+ years? Fear has spawned more fear, selfishness and judgement of others. But notice it just took one to push through the fear and jump in and once Nachshon jumped so did the rest of the people eventually.

Rabbi Ilana Kurshan:
“In contrast, immediately after they passed through the sea, the people joined together in communal singing. According to one Talmudic opinion, the song was recited in unison by the entire people; according to another opinion, it was initiated by Moshe and then chanted by the people in a call-and-response. Either way, Shirat Hayam was a communal experience of the people coming together to give thanks to God for the miracle they all experienced.”

As you may gather I was reminded of our community seder as I read this commentary because our seder felt like one of the first, of hopefully many, moments in which we finally transition from individual to collective and furthermore from divisiveness to unison. Our community seder was Nachshon jumping into the sea pushing past the fear to seek something new, to seek safety.

We have all been forging through the dark waters and in time we all will wade through them when we are ready, hopefully encouraged by those who are forging ahead before us. And when we reach the other side, which I can see, which we saw at the community seder, we can be united but it comes with a condition.

The Rabbis highlight that the Israelites were able to overcome the divisiveness leading into the Sea of Reeds by everyone participating.
“The Talmud (Sotah 30b) emphasizes that everyone participated in the singing -- even babies lying on their mother’s laps joined in, and even infants nursing from their mothers’ breasts would straighten their necks, and join in singing, “This is my God and I will glorify Him” (Exodus 15:2). Rabbi Tanhum adds that the bellies of pregnant women were transformed into glass spheres so that even fetuses in the womb could witness the miracle at the sea and sing of God’s glory.”

As you come through the dark waters and find dry land, join us as we forge ahead as a united community. Begin by joining us at the Annual Meeting and volunteer to be an active part in envisioning the future of this community.

Tot Shabbat
All start 5:30 pm to 6 pm

May 13
We are planning on having it in person

Please reply to the office (office@orshalom.com) or Rabbi Kami if you will be attending. If only 1 family rsvps then we will consider moving online.

Enjoy your summer break and stay tuned for plans for the fall. We are considering shifting from a Tot Shabbat service to a Family service. If you would like to be a part of planning young children/ family services and events please contact Rabbi Kami.
The topic this year will be Pirkei Avot.

Pirkei Avot (often called Ethics of the Fathers) is ethical literature from the Rabbis who lived within the period: 200 BCE to 200 CE. It is the only piece of Mishnah (earliest Rabbinic commentary on Jewish life and practice) that does not center around Jewish law (halacha) but rather ethics. Because of this, many find the text much easier to engage with than standard rabbinic texts and also find its teachings very applicable today.

Classes will be held on zoom, Wednesdays (see the Or Shalom calendar for dates as the class will not run every week) from 7:30- 8:30 pm.

Please email office to obtain zoom information.

RITUAL COMMITTEE NEWS

Or Shalom was a busy place during the month of April. We had an in-person Community Seder with about 30 people in attendance on April 15th for the first night of Pesach.

We held services on the first and second mornings of Pesach and on the seventh and eighth mornings. I’m sorry to report that we didn’t make a minyan on either the seventh morning or on the evening of the eighth day of Pesach. As I said last month, every person counts, and we were only one person short of making the minyan on Friday morning for the 7th day of Pesach. Those of you who had yahrzeits for loved ones in April may have noticed some changes in the letter. We have begun sending a Mourner’s Kaddish card with the Yahrzeit letter. In addition, if you find yourself in need of a yahrzeit candle, we have candles available for free in the office to honor the memory of your loved one.

As I reported last month, we have loosened the policy regarding masks at Or Shalom. At the time of the writing of this article, high quality masks (N95, KN95, KF94) are required when on the bimah. In the pews and in the social hall, all vaccinated and boosted attendees can choose whether to wear masks or not. If you are not vaccinated and boosted, Or Shalom strongly requests that you continue to wear an N95, KN95, or a KF94 mask while you are in the building. As usual, this policy carries the caveat that it may change if the incidence of COVID changes and the CDC raises Chester County’s risk/incidence level.

Finally, as we look toward the next holy days on the calendar, Shavuot will begin Saturday night, June 4th and continue through Monday, June 6th. On Sunday morning, June 5th, we will honor Or Tamid’s Confirmation class with a service at CBENT on the first day of Shavuot. Look for schedule information for these services in the weekly email as we approach the holy days. On Monday, June 6th, we will recite Yizkor in our service at Or Shalom. As was the case with the 7th day of Pesach, we anticipate light attendance during the weekday morning service on Monday, June 6th. If you can help us make a minyan, we would appreciate your taking the time to come to services, whether on Zoom or in person.

Kol tuv,

Joel Stern for the Or Shalom Ritual Committee.

This year’s Pesach was the most meaningful in my entire life! It was the first time in my tenure as the Or Tamid Education Director that we were able to have a model Seder in person! Because of the tireless work and dedication of our teachers, staff, clergy, and volunteers, it was a celebration to remember! Our students were very well prepared for the festival of freedom with their families. Each class contributed to our Seder with leading prayers, singing, dancing, and creative art projects! This year we added to our Seder plates sunflower seeds, the iconic comfort food of Ukrainian people, as a sign of our solidarity with them. And, right after our model Seder I left for Barcelona to lead Seder for Ukrainian Jewish refugees there. In fact, when I told Ukrainians about our addition of sunflower seeds to the Seder plate, some of them laughed, while others were moved to tears! One woman shared that, after leaving her home under fire in a hurry, grabbing just the first things she could reach, and finally arriving to safety at the Polish border, she put her arm in her overcoat’s pocket and discovered… a bag of sunflower seeds!

As I am writing these lines, I am sitting at the airport, ready to go back home. There are too many things I want to share with you about this trip, but they will, probably, have to wait until the next article. In Catalonia there also were dozens of children, singing, dancing, reciting poems, but these children don’t know where they would wake up tomorrow. We will find a way to help them! Meanwhile, I will just share with you some of the images of our Pesach concert. May these people find their new true home or return to their old one soon, and may our children never wake up to the sounds of explosions!
